

Power phone

Toshiba's TG01 aims to beat both Apple's iPhone and T-mobile's G1 as the must-have mobile. Its high-resolution (800 x 480-pixel), 4in touchscreen display is bigger than that of its rivals and the handset itself is less than 1cm thick. Buried inside is a powerful 1GHz Snapdragon processor that allows the slim TG01 to run the Windows Mobile operating system.

Toshiba TG01

Price: £TBC (due summer)

Info: www.toshibamobilerevolution.com

Water sense

Spending too long in the shower doesn't just waste time, it wastes water and energy too. Once you've calibrated the Showerdrop to your shower, it tells you exactly how long you spend in there and how much water you use. Non-profit organisation Waterwise say it could save a family of four £180 a year on water and electricity bills. It might even stop your fingers from going wrinkly.

Eco Showerdrop

Best price: £9.99 from www.ethicalsuperstore.com

Info: www.ecokettle.com

Pitch perfect

Sennheiser's acoustic experts claim their new HD 800 headphones offer the lowest possible harmonic distortion. In other words, they let you hear the music as if it's being played live. The cans are built from the finest quality materials, including noise-dampening plastics and Kevlar-covered oxygen-free copper cables. No wonder they're so pricy.

Sennheiser HD 800

Best price: £999.95 from www.stoneaudio.co.uk

Info: www.sennheiser.co.uk

